- 1. Consular Section, who are in touch with the Embassy London in the matter, advise that two uncles of the above, Edward and Séan, will formally identify the body at about 2pm today. They both live in Luton. The Coroners' Court requires identification by a family member (a friend identified the body last week).
- 2. A Gorey undertaker, Aidan Murphy, is travelling today to London to bring the body back to Ireland. The O'Brien family solicitor, Michael Cullen, has told Consular that one ferry company (he did not say which one) has refused to transport the body. If transport remains a problem he will be contacting Consular again.
