

- Skip
- Skip
- Skip
- Skip
- Skip

Local & National

IN VIDEO...NEWS HEADLINES...BELFAST FESTIVAL AT QUEEN'S... FASHION WEEK

13° Belfast
Hi 13°C / Lo 8°C

- HAVE YOUR SAY
Send us your stories, pictures and comments

• News

- Living
- Care
- Money
- Other Titles
- Services

- Local & National
- World News
- Politics
- Property
- Health
- Education
- Business
- Environment
- Technology
- Belfast Telegraph Television
- Family Notices

O'Hagan

Tuesday, 16 September 2008

The PSNI say two men will be charged later this morning with murder, another with perverting the course of justice and a fourth with assisting offenders.

The charges are linked to the murder seven years ago of journalist Martin O'Hagan - gunned down by loyalists outside his home in Lurgan, Co. Armagh.

Martin O'Hagan had written about collusion between the police and loyalists and the involvement of the LVF in drug-dealing and other crime.

He was threatened by loyalists but continued living in Lurgan until he was shot dead as he walked home from the pub with his wife in 2001.

The National Union of Journalists has alleged that those behind the murder were police informers and were being protected.

Print Email

Search

Bookmark & Share

Digg It

del.icio.us

Facebook

Stumbleupon

There are reports now that one of those arrested last week to be charged this morning has turned Queen's evidence as his family has been taken into protective custody.

What are these?

Also in this section

- Dungannon unites in vigil for murder victim Eamonn Hughes
- Bomb defused outside Shell headquarters in Dublin
- 'Release Omagh tapes for civil case'
- Probe into sectarian attacks on boys
- Brown flies in for crunch talks on Stormont crisis

Hotels.com
wake up happy

Click here