The Man The Policy

Robert McCartney, married with four children lives in North Down. Born on the Shankill Road in 1936 he retains a strong pride in his working class roots. Recognised as one of Ulster's top barristers he has a formidable reputation in and out of court as a man of courage and integrity.

The Real Unionist

Robert McCartney is a real unionist who believes that Northern Ireland's present connection with Great Britain is a phoney union. Ulster is kept separate from the rest of the United Kingdom by the absence of real British politics. By their boycott of Northern Ireland, the major British parties of government, exclude the Province from real politics.

Robert McCartney's real unionism means:—

- Working to end the exclusion of British citizens from British politics.
- Working at Westminster to make the people of Northern Ireland first class citizens of the United Kingdom.
- Working to destroy an Agreement which gives a hostile foreign state a say in the running of Northern Ireland.
- Robert McCartney believes that only a real union can produce effective security. First class security is only granted to first class citizens. Robert McCartney believes that the IRA's political morale would only be destroyed by a real union of first class citizens.
